

6 Secrets to Effective and High Impact Presentations

(They work for facilitation too!)

This training is designed for consultants, trainers, facilitators, and anyone interested in learning about how to create and deliver high engagement presentations.

Topics Covered:

- Recent neuroscience and brain research that contain the secrets to effective presenting and learning.
- Learn 6 “Secrets” that you can immediately put to use in your presentation and facilitation which will -- drastically increase the learning and value that participants leave with.
- Opportunities to reflect on the implications and applications of this knowledge for our work in the social sector, individually and collectively.

These secrets will increase the learning, retention, and engagement of any presentation exponentially. They are simple and easy to adopt. Are you ready to increase your impact?

Faculty: Wholonomy Consulting llc

Our trainers have conducted presentations to a variety of audiences and organizations, including staff and volunteers from the United Way of Southern Arizona, Arizona Early Education Funded Regional Partnerships, First Focus on Kids, Girls Inc. of Southern Arizona, Pinal Gila Community Child Services, Inc, Public Allies Arizona, participants at the Alliance for Nonprofit Management annual conference, and grantees and staff from several Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) funded programs.

What participants have told us about their experiences learning the six secrets:

“I value the knowledge about how the brain works, and I can go into a presentation I give with more confidence.”

“A highlight for me was reading the posters during the Gallery Walk. The information was extremely interesting and thought-provoking.”

“This experience allowed me to see a completely new way of facilitation and interaction between the presenter and audience -- which is empowering.”